

Food Chain Song

---

This is for the grassland: you have the grass,

Then add the hop,

And then you got rat, snake, and hawk.

This one is pond: First the algae

Then 'squito about to be a cocoon

Same with dragonfly, but not fish or raccoon.

This is for the ocean: there are the two plankton

A walk in the park

Then there is the fish, then the shark

This is for all: there's producer, consumer,

And consumer number two

Wait, before that, there's decomposer, too!

There's the plants (producers) with photosynthesis

To make their food, something you shouldn't miss!

Then come the herbivores (plant eaters)

Then come the carnivores that eat 'em!

The carnivore is predator, the herbivore is prey,

That's how the energy passes in the food chain!

Which you could call it a food web,

They change in every habitat, there are snakes that eat eggs!

Carnivore and herbivore are the main categories,

But there are two more: one is scavengers that eat dead bodies!

There are also omnivores, so cool are these,

They eat other animals, but they also eat leaves!

Yes, it was a good song, but congratulate me later,

I need to learn more 'cause I'm a food chain investigator!
